Happy Homemakers Make Plans For Coming Holly Day Doings

Many a ballpoint pen is being worn out as greeting cards are addressed for mailing.

The first part of November rather early for greetings from Saint Nick but it didn't prevent Bill Parthen from receiving a handsome clock radio. An appreciative gentleman from Hawthorne, where Bill's employed as a mail carrier, presented him with it.

Rudolph and his red nose are again playing a starring role since being hoisted, along with Santa and his other reindeer, to the roof of the Earl Van Fleet residence, 4728 Narrot St. The gay display makes every reasoning wife and child on the street say, "Daddy, why can't we have something like that?"

Paul Ekberg and his buddies were out in full force to put decals of window cleaner on the garage windows. You can be sure the boys who did the work will protect it.

The Dick Lawrence on Beckworth are shopping for a pink tree to set in front of those new turquoise drapes. Nice colors to bring together.

The Bill Aureli family went to the mountains for their Christmas spirit. Wayne, a second grader reports the snowballing was just great... far simpler than the skiing he attempted. Most of us Moms are up to our earrings in baking and decorating cookies. We complain a little about all of the hustling but isn't it fun?

This will be the first Christmas in Southwest Park for Mr. and Mrs. Fred O'Brien and children... Justin, Karen, and Norayne. Having come to California three years ago from Boston they decided to settle here.

At 4568 Cadison, echoes will bounce from the walls and neighbors will miss the coming and going of the Ken King family. They're moving to Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lee, who live in Ellinwood, held a party for friends who wished to bid farewell to the Kings. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Faust and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plehal were among them.

"I'll Be Home for Christmas" the song promises and one who might be humming that tune is Sam Vanden, 4715 Narrot St. For a year and a month, Sam was a patient in a Long Beach hospital. Although he has been welcomed back to his job and probably feels quite adjusted again it will mean a lot to him and his family to have him home, especially at Christmas.

While the rest of us were still brushing away the pumpkin pie crumbs from Thanksgiving dinner the George Westlunds, 4507 Toucan, were anticipating the arrival of Laurie Ann. On the 28th of November at Kaiser Hospital this happy event transpired.

The Westlunds have two other daughters, Kathy and Cindy Sue.

Kris Kringle's not the only jolly and important person coming from the north. Ask Donald and Lloyd Chamberlin and they will tell you their grandparents also come from the "north country"... Yakima, Wash., to be exact.

They are visiting the boys and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Chamberlin.

A long awaited event in the experience of Billy Bergeron has come and gone but will not be forgotten by the boy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bergeron.

On Saturday, Dec. 8, at 8, Billy made his First Holy Communion at St. James' Catholic Church in Redondo Beach.

Leslie Bud Read manages cafeteria at Douglas so you can see why the Boy Scouts entrusted their spaghetti dinner to his supervision. The results were deliciously satisfactory. Scouts from various areas solicit for funds and sell items in this tract. This is all right, of course, but if you wish especially to support our own youngsters you might ask the boys whether they're local troop members. It's disappointing to have neighbors tell our park boys they've already donated to a nother group of Scouts.

The Cub Scouts aren't napping either. Troop No. 703-C plans called for a Christmas party in the Carl Steele cafeteria last Tuesday. Games, refreshments, and gifts passed out by Santa himself made the affair click, reports Jim Ives, Cubmaster.

A five-piece band will provide rhythmic background for the rock 'n roll set when the Christmas Dance for teenagers take place Dec. 21. The music makers are known as the El Camino College Quintet. They will get this holiday ball rolling at 7:30. The dance will be over by 11. Same place... Carl Steele Cafeterium. Amid the decorations prizes donated by Torrance merchants will be awarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Hill have also moved. Their neighbors at 19005 Mansel enjoyed them and didn't like to see them leave.

New China Town was the choice of the Earl Barackmans and five other couples who wanted to enjoy eating out. They found a restaurant as Chinese as the Ming Dynasty, ordered their favorite dishes and proceeded to have a delightful meal.

By singing carols and giving the little patients' candy canes the second grades of Mrs. Iris McKinley's class at Carl Steele School will have their Christmas "party" at Harbor General Hospital. They are scheduled to visit the children's ward Dec. 18.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Watts participated in an unusual but most practical shower recently when the Carl Minors were literally deluged with groceries.

The family had just moved in and would have made a trip to the grocery the next morning. This, however, proved most unnecessary, with the dining area floor filled with cartons, cans, and containers.

The most uncanny feature of the whole event was the simultaneous arrival of the 37 well-wishers. This, in itself, caused considerable chin dropping and eye popping.

Mrs. Bill McArthur was delighted when her husband, Bill, gave her a new bowling ball and bag so that she could bowl in the league. It was understood, too, that this was to be her birthday gift. But the anniversary arrived and so did a lovely big package.

Overwhelmed, Mrs. McArthur opened it and found she was the happy owner of a handsome, copper topped electric skillet.
